British Patrols Have Been in the Streets Fred Funke of North Duxbury Had Been of Lens and Gen. Haig's Men Are on the Outskirts of St. Quentin—
Hindenburg is Sending in Reserves to Delay Capture Until Cities Can be Destroyed

Waterbury, April 16.—The tragic death of Fred Funke of North Duxbury on Sunday brought genuine grief to those who knew the many good qualities which Mr. Funke possessed. He had been fishing with Lynn Lewis, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lewis, As they neared the track on their way home, Mr. Funke said he guessed he would stop to fill his pipe, and the young lad ran along. As Mr. Funke did not arrive home when expected, the people became alarmed and Turkish Official Statemen be Destroyed

Although British patrols have been in the streets of Lens and General Haig's men are on the outskirts of St. Quentin, the fall of neither is yet officially reported. British Headquarters in France, via London (from staff correspondent of the Associated Press), April 16.-The British continued to-day gradually to widen the second gap in the Hindenburg line north of St. Quentin, having captured a position known as "Three Savages," east of Gricourt. St. Quentin continues to burn. Away to the north Lens still holds out. The British apparently would like to take Lens without inflicting too great damage from an extensive bombardment. RIOTING IN BERLIN

IN ALSACE NOW

The British captured last night the# village of Villaret, southeast of Hargicourt, according to the official statement to-day. They also made progress northwest of Lens, and large captures of guns and war material were made by the British at Lieven and on the Souchez river in the Lens region. The cannon taken include one six-inch naval gun of long range. Truck loads of new tools, many thousand rounds of ammunition and quantities of bombs, granades and engineering equipment also were captured.

The report last night that the British FRENCH LAUNCH had actually entered Lens was evidently premature, but the civilian population evacuated the town on Friday and great fires are burning, showing that the Germans are destroying their stores preparatory to their departure, according to a staff correspondent of the Associated Press. The official statement issued last night reads as follows:

"Early this morning the enemy launched a strong attack on a front of more than six miles astride the Baupaume-Cambrai road under cover of a heavy bombardment against our new positions from Hermies to Noreuil. parts of the great task ahead, the president declares, and he urges all the people with particular emphasis upon his words ness and demonstrate efficiency.

The address follows: 'My Fellow Countrymen:

"The entrance of our own beloved counry into the grim and terrible war for emocracy and human rights which has shaken the world creates so many problems of national life and action which call for immediate consideration and settlement that I hope you will permit me to address to you a few words of earnest ounsel and appeal with regard to them. "We are rapidly putting our navy upon in effective war footing and are about to reate and equip a great army, but these are the simplest parts of the great task o which we have addressed ourselves. ar as I can see, in the cause we are fighting for. We are fighting for what we be-lieve and wish to be the rights of mankind and for the future peace and security of the world. To do this great thing orthily and successfully, we must devote ourselves to the service without regard to profit or material advantage, and with an energy and intelligence that will ise to the level of the enterprise itself. We must realize to the full how great the task is and how many things, how many kinds and elements of capacity and

"These, then, are the things we must o and do well, besides fighting-the things without which mere fighting would be fruitless:

"We must supply abundant food for ourselves and for our armies and our seamen, but also for a large part of the nations with whom we have now made common cause, in whose support and by whose sides we shall be fighting, "We must supply ships by dreds out of our shipwards to carry to the other side of the sea, submarines or needed there and abundant materials out of our fields and our mines and our factories with which not only to clothe and equip our own forces on land and sea but also to clothe and support our people for! whom the gallant fellows under arms can no longer work, to help clothe and equip the armies with which we are co-operating in Europe, and to keep the looms and manufactories there in raw material; coal to keep the fires going in ships at which to make arms and ammunition both here and there; rails for worn out railways back of the fighting fronts; locoplace of those every day going to pieces; mules, horses, cattle for labor and for military service; everything with which the people of England and France and Italy and Russia have usually supplied a very substantial and timely service to morrow and his presence at the Board of themselves, but cannot now afford the men, the materials or the machinery to spread repetition.

make. "It is evident to every thinking man that our industries on the farms, in the shipyards, in the mines, in the factories, cient than ever and that they must be more economically managed and better adapted to the particular requirements of our task than they have been, and what I want to say is that the men and the women who devote their thought and their energy to these things would be serving the country and conducting the fight for peace and freedom just as truly and just as effectively as the men on the battlefield or in the trenches. The industrial forces of the country, men and women alike, will be a great national, a great international service army-a notable and honored host engaged in the service of the nation and the world, the encient friends and saviors of free men everywhere.
